The appropriations bills that fund the federal government beginning October 1, 2020 have not been enacted by Congress. The House has completed most of its work on the twelve measures but the Senate has not. A Continuing Resolution (CR) will be needed by September 30, 2020 to avoid a government shutdown. Negotiations on the details, including the length of the extension, are taking place in September. Review the status of all budget bills at this link:
